

• HIDDEN THREAT

There's a WordPress folder that never shows up in your Plugins screen.

Researchers found a backdoor campaign hiding inside it this month.

02/07

THE FOLDER

/wp-content/mu-plugins/

Must-use plugins load automatically in the background. There's no toggle, no listing, no entry on the normal wp-admin Plugins screen.

03/07

WHY ATTACKERS LIKE IT

It's a genuinely good place to hide something.

Nothing about how WordPress presents this folder gives an owner a reason to ever look inside it.

04/07

THE RISK

A site could be compromised right now.

With the owner having zero reason to check — because there's never been a reason to, until now.

05/07

HOW TO CHECK

FTP or your host's file manager.

Open `/wp-content/mu-plugins/` directly and look for anything you don't recognize or didn't put there yourself.

If something looks unfamiliar:

- 01 Don't delete it yourself — you could remove evidence or break something else
- 02 Note the filename and when it was modified
- 03 Ask your host or developer to look at it before touching anything
